Michael represents many of the world's largest insurance companies, focusing his practice on litigation in insurance coverage. He is particularly involved in coverage issues and litigation relating to the February 2021 Texas freeze event, commercial weather damage, and business interruption losses.

Michael has vast experience with all levels of litigation and dispute resolution, including written discovery, fact and expert depositions, motion practice, oral argument, appraisal, and mediation.

Michael frequently drafts coverage opinions related to complex commercial insurance claims across the United States, and has experience with litigated matters in Texas, Oklahoma, California, New Mexico, and Louisiana.

Michael joined Zelle in 2017 after clerking with the firm for two summers during law school.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

Assisted in trial resulting in unanimous jury verdict on behalf of Landmark American Insurance Company, including cross-examination of expert witnesses and oral Directed Verdict argument. The case involved the application of an artificially generated electrical exclusion to arcing damage caused during Hurricane Patricia.

Successfully briefed and argued the application of forum-selection clauses in Texas and California state courts.

Successfully briefed, on multiple occasions, the applicability of Tex. Ins. Code Section 542A.006, which relates to an insurer's election of agent/adjuster liability, on the diversity of citizenship for federal jurisdiction.

Successfully briefed and argued, on multiple occasions, the preclusion of attorney's fees for failure to provide proper pre-suit notice pursuant to Tex. Ins. Code Section 542A.003.
