

Zelle Coronavirus Resource Center

For over three decades, Zelle LLP has been at the forefront of addressing the legal issues faced by our commercial property insurance clients in emerging risk exposures. These risk exposures have included numerous hurricanes, the 911 Terrorist Attack, Y2K, mold, hail, and others. For the first time, a global pandemic presents a potential major exposure to our clients. While still too early to fully understand and evaluate the magnitude of the coronavirus exposure to our clients, Zelle LLP is already working to collect information and preparing to assist our clients with the inevitable coming influx of coronavirus related claims and resulting litigation. Zelle's first white paper on insurance coverage issues expected to arise in coronavirus claims is available below. As we have with past emerging risk exposures, Zelle will be keeping our clients and industry friends up to date with all the latest information relevant to the coronavirus risk exposure.

Recent Coronavirus Developments

The Council of State Governments is the best resource we have identified to locate all types of government orders. Their website is:

<https://web.csg.org/covid19/executive-orders/>. Additionally, Partner

Engineering has an excellent listing of government orders having an impact on construction and other issues:
