

Pandemic Claims and Litigation

PRACTICE CONTACTS

- Steven J. Badger
- Kristin C. Cummings

For over three decades, Zelle has been at the forefront of addressing the legal issues faced by our commercial property insurance clients in emerging risk exposures. Now, for the first time, a global pandemic presents a potential major exposure to our clients. With an unprecedented number of property insurance claims being made across industries and throughout the world, the magnitude of this new risk is not yet known. But Zelle is already leading the way in evaluating the novel issues that COVID-19 claims raise and assisting our clients with the influx of claims and the resulting litigation. Zelle is on the front lines of COVID-19, speaking to thousands through our COVID-19 webinar series, defending our clients in litigation across the country, and working with clients in the trenches to manage this new reality.

To access the Coronavirus Resource Center click here.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

Serves as national COVID-19 counsel for multiple commercial property insurers.

Represents multiple property insurers in defense of putative class actions alleging wrongful denial of coverage arising from COVID-19.

Represents property insurers in declaratory judgment actions filed by various insureds throughout the United States.